

Contributors about themselves

Joseph E. Bigio is one of the founders of the cooperatively owned Universidade Autonoma de Lisboa, Portugal. Director of its Centre for Studies of Globalization, he is a socio-economist and a linguist. Convinced of the necessity for the establishment of a Family of Nations within a Greater Europe, which eventually should include Russia, his hobbies include travel in Central Europe, particularly wherever he can pursue his interest in the cultural history of the countries of the Holy Roman Empire. He enjoys classical music, going to the theatre to see musicals and operettas and, believe it or not, Science Fiction.

Carlos Escudé studied in Buenos Aires; St. Antony's College, Oxford, and Yale University. He obtained his Ph.D. in Political Science from the latter in 1981. He is the author of books published in Argentina, the United States and Italy, as well as academic articles published in the United Kingdom, Germany, Israel, Mexico, Brazil and Chile. In 1991-92 he was special advisor to the Foreign Minister of Argentina on issues of foreign policy strategy. Among other appointments abroad he has been Visiting Professor at Harvard University's Department of Government (1994) and Madrid's Instituto José Ortega y Gasset (1997); Visiting Scholar at the Institut für Spanien- und Lateinamerikastudien of the University of Augsburg (1996) and at Johns Hopkins' School of Advanced International Studies (1990); and Senior Associate Member at St. Antony's College, Oxford (1984-85). He is currently Professor of International Relations at Universidad Torcuato Di Tella, Buenos Aires.

Gernot Köhler, Ph.D., published on issues of global economics, world-system, peace and justice in journals like Alternatives, edp-Entwicklungspolitik, Journal of World-Systems Research, Journal of Peace Research, UNESCO Science and Society, and others; book publication on Global Keynesianism: Unequal Exchange and Global Exploitation (with Tausch, 2002) and an edited book on Globalization (forthcoming, with Chaves) with contributions by world-system scholars Chase-Dunn, Frank, Kiljunen, Tausch, Wallerstein and ten other excellent authors; professor at the School of Computing and Information Management, Sheridan College, Oakville, Canada(emeritus).

Ewa Maziarz, MA. (Warsaw School of Economics).Diploma of the Centre for Latin American Studies (Warsaw University). Analyst at The Polish Institute of International Affairs. Research fields: Development of the EU, EU accession negotiations, enhanced cooperation in the EU, globalisation, Information Society.